

Contents

---

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	i
Wayne H. Slater and Shirley Wilson Logan
SECTION I. PROGRAMMATIC PERSPECTIVES AT MARYLAND
1. Innovation and Restoration: A History of Introductory Academic Writing at the University of Maryland	13
Robert Coogan, Jane Donawerth, and Molly J. Scanlon
2. The Once and Future Discipline: The Rhetorical Core of the Academic and Professional Writing Programs	24
Jeanne Fabnestock
SECTION II. PROGRAMMATIC PERSPECTIVES AT ILLINOIS, CORNELL, HOWARD, AND PENN STATE
3. Undergraduate Rhetoric at UIUC: Revising a Curriculum, Rethinking a Program	47
Kelly Ritter
4. Breaking Out of the Box: Expanding the WAC Program at Howard University	65
Teresa M. Redd
5. “Who Are the Specialists?” The Dependent Independent Writing Program at Cornell	83
Paul Sawyer
6. At the Intersection of Feminism, Rhetoric, and Writing Program Administration	108
Cheryl Glenn
SECTION III. LANGUAGE PERSPECTIVES
7. Language as System and Situation: Writing the World	131
James Paul Gee

8. Reconfiguring Learner Identities in Writing Pedagogy 146
Suresh Canagarajah
9. Creating a United Front: A Writing Program
Administrator's Institutional Investment in Language Rights for Composition Students 168
Staci Perryman-Clark

SECTION IV. DIGITAL PERSPECTIVES

10. What Do Humans Do Best? Developing
Communicative Humans in the Changing
Socio-Cyborgian Landscape 187
Charles Bazerman
11. From Topoi to Tweets: What Ancient
Rhetoricians Can Teach Digital Natives 204
James A. Herrick
12. Text, Design, Code: Digital Rhetoric in Academic and Professional Writing 221
Douglas Eyman
13. A Beauty for Informing Digital Bodies 234
Anne Frances Wysocki

SECTION V. TWO PERSPECTIVES ON ASSESSMENT

14. It's Tagmemics and the Sex Pistols: Current Issues
in Individual and Programmatic Writing Assessment 257
Kathleen Blake Yancey
15. What If the Common Core Standards Actually
Work? For College Writing, Partly Cloudy with a Chance of Rain 275
Doug Hesse

Afterword: The Not-So-Simple Truth of English B 293
Jessica Enoch and Scott Wible

Contributors 307
Index 311